Remember the following options may save you money:

1. Railcard discounts apply. Railcards have varying terms and conditions and are mostly not usable in the morning peak. However, if travelling to London at peak times, it may be cheaper to buy a single in the morning at the standard fare and then purchase an off-peak single for the return journey with a railcard discount. For example, the 'Anytime' Return to London Plus High Speed is £60.20. Buying an Anytime Single to London, Plus High Speed the cost is £33.10; for the return journey an Off-Peak Single Plus High Speed is £32.70 – but the latter attracts a 34% railcard discount (including the Network Railcard), taking the cost down to £21.60. TOTAL COST is £54.30, a saving of £5.90.

2. Southern Advanced fares have been capped. These start at £3.75 one way to principal destinations including Gatwick Airport, East Croydon and London Victoria.
3. The Southern 1 day Daysave Ticket is still only £10 for unlimited off-peak travel on the Southern network. As long as you travel after 10am, and avoid travelling home in the evening rush hour from London, it offers considerable savings both to Brighton and the West Coastway, and to London.
